4. Risk Factors

Each paragraph should have a caption. The risk factors may include, among others, the following: lack of operating history; lack of recent profits from operations; poor financial position; lack of a market for the issuer’s securities and unlikelihood of a market at any time in the future; inexperience of management or any underwriter; factors related to the issuer’s business or proposed business; contracts or dealings between the issuer and its management or promoters; the existence of substantial dilution; the existence or proposed issuance of substantial amount of rights to purchase additional securities of the issuer at prices which would have a dilutive effect on the interest of public investors; the dependency of the issuer on retaining a particular customer or group of customers or the services of one or more particular members of management; small or limited contribution of the promoters, as compared to the public investors; the extent of the issuer’s dependency on the proceeds of the offering and/or additional financing to permit it to engage in its current or proposed business activities; competitive factors in the issuer’s line of business; problems involving patents, licenses, marketing, advertising and franchises; dividend policy of the issuer; voting control by management; and subordination provisions. Include appropriate cross references to detailed discussions of these factors in the prospectus.

F. Where proceeds are to be used in connection with a transaction described under “Related Transactions,” a specific reference should be made thereto.
G. Generally, the issuer may not reserve more than 15% of the proceeds for working capital or general corporate purposes (see NASAA Statement of Policy Regarding Specificity in Use of Proceeds).
