Plaintiffs brought their action against defendants on a promissory note for seven hundred & seventy two dollars and seventy five cents.

Thomas W Mosier was served with process, and a publication was regularly had as to Jeremiah K Mosier —

They failed to appear and judgment was rendered against them for want of an answer,

No further proceedings were had

There is no bill of exceptions depends, being the case here by writ of error.

There is nothing apparent to authorize this Court to disturb the Judgment below. Woods, Christy & Co vs Mosier & another.

The plaintiffs brought their suit upon a promissory note against the defendants in the Circuit Court of McDonald County.

The summons and petition were personally served on one of the defendants Thomas W. Mosier; and there was constructive service on the other defendant by order of publication in a Newspaper.

The Circuit Court rendered judgment by default against the defendants; and they bring the case by writ of Error to this Court; and rely upon the insufficiency of the published notice — In looking into the record it seems, that no motion has been made to set aside the proceedings in the Circuit Court; and until that is done this Court does not interfere to correct the supposed error. The judgment must be affirmed — Judge Leonard concurring —

Woods Christie & Co. } In the Supreme court
vs } Error to McDonald
Magier & Magier } circuit court.

The dep't. J. K. Magier comes & says there is manifest error in the proceedings & judgment of the circuit court in this case - As follows.

The court erred in rendering judgment against J. K. Magier in this case by default there being no sufficient service of the writ nor sufficient publication as the law required. The judgment is therefore irregular as against J. K. Magier & void.

Woods. Christie & Co. } In the Supreme court
vs } error to McDonald
Magier & Magier } circuit court.

This was a civil action & there being no service of process on J. K. Magier an order of publication was made.

At the return Term of the circuit court judgment was rendered against both defendants. one of whom had been served with process & the other (J. K. Magier) was not. But it appears that a publication was made to him. But the same was not such as the law required. Thereupon the defts being called came & not. & judgment was rendered

The Defts. J. K. Magier relies on these points to reverse the judgment

The statute requires either a service of process or an order of publication notifying defts. of the commencement of the suit & stating the general nature & object of the suit in the publication. This not being done as by reference thereto may fully appear - the judgment is irregular & ought to be set aside & vacated
