State Librarian Message

With winter in full swing, staying indoors with a cup of hot chocolate watching the snow fall becomes one of my treasured moments. When you're outdoors on a walk, bringing in groceries from the car, or shoveling the driveway or sidewalk, take a moment to pause and enjoy how the world quiets with a fresh blanket of snow. Find the peace in a world slowed by weather.

These wintery days create a perfect opportunity to spot bird prints in the snow surrounding their feeders or animal tracks leading home to their cozy dens. Even with the dreaded ice, I find joy in the way the pines outside my window sparkle and shine in the sun. Though the start of the new year is cold, cloudy, and full of inclement weather, take time to appreciate this season's beauty and unique offerings. Whether you stay warm indoors or take a trip into the snow, gather together with your loved ones to share your latest reads, winter observations and stories, and new year reflections.

This past year, I hope you have enjoyed increasing your community's access to information. I extend sincere gratitude to all our Missouri State Library staff and to you all for your contributions to Missouri libraries.

Wishing you well in the new year,

Janet Caruthers

Public Domain Day

Jan. 1 of every year is Public Domain Day, and this year, copyrighted works from 1930 and sound recordings from 1925 enter the US public domain, meaning they can be used and shared freely without permission or fees.

While copyright laws protect works from being used without the creators' permission, US copyright laws also recognize that as time passes, there is a point at which works should no longer have strict rules against their use by others. Most works reach that time after 95 years. This gives the public free access to works created a lifetime ago as well as the ability to make old works new again without limitations, costs, or restrictions.

Some notable works that entered the public domain this Jan. 1 include:

Literature

- As I Lay Dying, by William Faulkner
- The first four Nancy Drew books: The Secret of the Old Clock, The Hidden Staircase, The Bungalow Mystery, and The Mystery at Lilac Inn, by Carolyn Keene
- The Murder at the Vicarage, by Agatha Christie
- The Little Engine That Could, by Watty Piper
- Ash Wednesday, by T.S. Eliot

Film and Television

- Dizzy Dishes, produced by the Fleischer Studio's (first introduction to Betty Boop)
- The Chain Gang and The Picnic, produced by Disney (first introduction to Pluto, originally named Rover)
- All Quiet on the Western Front, directed by Lewis Milestone
- King of Jazz, directed by John Murray Anderson

Music

- "Embraceable You," musical composition by Ira Gershwin and George Gershwin
- "Georgia on My Mind," musical composition by Stuart Gorrell and Hoagy Carmichael

- "Dream a Little Dream of Me," musical composition by Gus Kahn, Fabian Andre, and Wilbur Schwandt
- "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," recorded by Marian Anderson
- "The St. Louis Blues," recorded by Bessie Smith, featuring Louis Armstrong
- Composition No. II by Piet Mondrian public libraries certified to receive FY26 state aid, Missouri school libraries publicly supported and publicly controlled, and Missouri academic libraries supported publicly or privately.

Show-Me Steps To Continuing Education

• Deadline: Ongoing

This open-call grant from the Missouri State Library provides financial assistance for library staff and trustees to participate in continuing education and training opportunities when local funds cannot finance the entire cost. Digital Imaging Grant • Letter of Intent Deadline: Jan. 15; Application Deadline: March 15

The Digital Imaging Grant (DIG) FY26 requires a letter of intent to be submitted to the Missouri State Library by Jan. 15. Digital Imaging grants provide funding for eligible libraries and their partners in the cultural heritage community to carry out projects involving the selection, digital capture, storage, and provision of Web access to their important historical and cultural collections. These grants support creation of digital collections at institutions while at the same time adding expanded access to those collections via the Missouri Digital Heritage database and web site. The proposal must demonstrate the unique nature of the materials to be processed, show how they can be characterized as original source materials, and explain what value or benefit will accrue to the citizens of Missouri and other patrons by making them available in digital format via the Web. Collections should be generally representative of Missouri history and culture. It is important to demonstrate what demand exists for these collections already. The DIG application is available in the online grant system. Institutions receiving approval of their letters of intent will have until March 15 to apply.

Spotlight on Literacy Grant • Deadline: Feb. 28

Spotlight on Literacy grant applications will open in mid-January. This program-centric grant is used to improve literacy through community partnerships. Libraries can apply for funds to create new or improve current programs to serve patrons of all ages. Libraries will focus on a single target audience, as well as a specific literacy area to address, such as civic literacy, cultural literacy, career literacy, early literacy, digital literacy, STEM literacy, health literacy, or financial literacy. Applications are due by Feb. 28.

All available grants are found in the online grant management system approximately 45 days prior to the application due date.

Missouri State Library grants are supported by the Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act as administered by the Missouri State Library, a division of the Office of the Secretary of State.
