This measure amends the Missouri Constitution by adding Section 36 to Article I. This amendment implicitly amends various statutes and subsections including but not necessarily limited to RSMo 213.

Be it resolved by the people of the state of Missouri that the Constitution be amended:

Article I of the Constitution is revised by adopting a new section to be known as Article I, Section 36, to read as follows:

Discrimination in employment based on race, color, age, disability, religion, gender, sexual orientation, national origin or ancestry shall be prohibited. Bona fide occupational qualifications and entities owned and operated by religious organizations are exempted. Neither remedies nor relief for employment discrimination shall be limited by the legislature or statute. "Discrimination in employment" shall mean that an enumerated category contributed in any way to an employment decision, outcome or condition including, but not limited to, wages, benefits, promotion, opportunities, hiring, termination or working conditions. These rights cannot be waived by arbitration agreements.
